

Harris Clash Announces Return to Deer Creek Speedway in 2019

August 14, 2018

One week after the Harris Clash made its way to Deer Creek Speedway for the first time, race promoter Bob Harris announced the historic race would be returning to the Spring Valley, MN track once again in 2019. This year's race, featuring Northern Sport Mods and Modifieds, was the first IMCA-sanctioned event in the venue's history.

Harris is excited about the future of the event. "We are thrilled that the Harris Clash will once again be returning to Deer Creek Speedway in 2019. The facilities are of the highest quality and the racing surface is excellent. The Queensland family does an incredible job promoting and executing large shows like the [Harris] Clash, and we are looking forward to working closely with them once again to bring you another incredible event in 2019."

The 2018 event featured $1000-to-win Northern Sport Mods and $3000-to-win Modifieds, yielding a field of 151 cars from 17 states and Canada, the highest car count in Harris Clash history. A date, complete payout, and other details for the 2019 Harris Clash are yet to be determined.

First held in 1992, the Harris Clash is a premier event for IMCA Northern Sport Mod and Modified drivers across the country, with a unique emphasis on racing manufacturers. More information can be found at www.harrisclash.com.
